Presentation by Peter Block of New London.

His topic and bio follow.

Floating Through Our Natural World

Peter Bloch will be showing us some of his films depicting the wonders and wildness of nature. Most of the settings are from the central NH area, and were captured with an aerial drone or a “terrestrial” regular camera (often mounted to a kayak). If you have ever dreamt of flying like a bird, drifting serenely above and within the forest canopy, this presentation is for you!

Peter is best known for his 40-year career in the League of NH Craftsmen, in particular for his unique and dramatic translucent wood lampshades. Six years ago, Peter got his first drone and that triggered an unexpected passion for aerial photography and videography. It has become a second creative business as well as a personal endeavor to see and share these amazing views of nature. You can learn more about Peter’s work at www.earth.aerial.productions.com
