

Squires Luncheon, March 8, 2018

“I’m Not Going Anywhere! Stay In Your Home as You Age.”

Ellen Flaherty, PhD, APRN, AGSF

We have chosen to live in the beauty of rural New Hampshire. As we and our loved ones get older, new medical challenges arise and we need to identify available, nearby professional resources. Ellen Flaherty, our luncheon speaker, will provide us the roadmap to identify those resources and still maintain our independence.

Dr. Flaherty is the Board Chair and Immediate Past President of The American Geriatrics Society. She is the Co-Director of the Dartmouth Centers for Health and Aging. She has a joint appointment in Geriatrics at the Geisel School of Medicine at Dartmouth and Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center, where she practices in General Internal Medicine. Before joining DHMC, Dr. Flaherty spent 25 years working in New York City to advance clinical practice in geriatric nursing at the NYU College of Nursing/Hartford Institute, where she received her PhD.
